FOR THE BIRDS

Winston-Salem, N. C. - "Help! murder! Police!" twittered the pet parakeets in frantic chirps and trills.

The R. L. Perkins family, roused at 2 A. M., heard strange noises just outside a bedroom window.

They called police, who closed in stealthily to search for a prowler. They found one — a big, hungry cat perched on a stack of lumber, licking his chops and leering at the family parakett through the window.

GETTING IN THE ACT

Dutroit, Mich.- Ten-year-old Desmond McDuffee had an argument with his widowed mother and decided to return to his former home in Memphis, Tenn.

Desmond got out his mother's car and left. Two miles from home, fourteen damaged parked cars, one flattened fence, and one equally flattened back porch later, police flushed him out of hiding under a nearby pile of cartons, only to be told by Desmond: "I ain't talking. I'm taking the Fifth Amendment."

Teacher: "How many sexes are there?"

Little boy: "Three."

Teacher: "What are they?"

Little boy: "The male sex, the female sex, and the insects."

Most people do not know how to cut down on a diet, if they want or need to curtail total foods, say nutritionists at VPI.

Many start by omitting milk, potatoes, or bread, all of which are good nutritious foods. The only foods which can safely be omitted are pure fats or pure carbohydrates, the nutritionists say. Fats with vitamin A should not be omitted.

True To Form

A group of Chicagoans, showing a visiting Texas friend "What do you think of our skyscrapers?" they asked.

"Man, we got tornadoes in Texas bigger'n this."

"Well," they asked, "what do you think of the Chicago skyscrapers of the Chicago tornadoes?"

"Why man, we got some in Boot Hill bigger than that."

That night they put a few snapping turtles in his bed. When he turned down the covers he asked what they were, he was told, "Illinois bedbugs."

He peered at them and said, "So they are," he agreed, "'uns, ain't they?"

Appomattox Cited For Pasture Development

Appomattox, Sept. 10.- In a few years, Frank Mabley, owner of 320 acres called Christmas Farm, has turned what was once considered a run-down operation into a productive unit.

Mabley acquired Christmas Farm in 1953 and now it carries a herd of 39 milk cows. In talking with County Agent Jim Smith a few days ago, he pointed out five things, and the order in which he had worked on them, in improving the farm's productivity: 1, pasture; 2, pasture plus hay; 3, pasture, hay, and corn silage; 4, pasture, hay, corn silage, and grass silage; 5, pasture, hay, corn silage, grass silage, and grain.

Last year Mabley seeded 18 well-fertilized acres to a mixture of rye, crimson clover, ladino clover, orchard grass, and rye grass. His cows grazed it for 20 days during the fall. In May of this year, he mowed off 180 tons of grass silage, putting it in an upright silo with metabisulfite added.

This silage was a wonderful set, Smith points out, when dry weather came with summertime. Mabley started July 15 feeding it at 50 pounds per day, releasing his pastures before they became damaged while awaiting refreshing rains and higher milk prices in the fall.

Before long Mabley will be putting corn into his trench silo, but next year he will put his grass silage into the trench. He explains: "Grass silage loses more nutrients when stored in an upright silo, because of increased pressure. And summer and fall are the best times to feed from a trench. You don't have the problem of getting in and out of the silo as you do in winter."

"This forage program," adds Smith, "is based on good planning, timeliness, a good fertilization program, and good management."

NEW BOOK IN THE COUNTY LIBRARY

Swear by Apollo
by Shirley Barker.

Shirley Barker's colorful gift for story-telling has never been more evident than in this book, a novel about a young American physician in eighteenth-century Scotland and the Hebrides. It was after the death of his young wife, Sally Anne that Randall Woodbury decided to take his father's advice and go to Edinburgh for further medical study. Not many months after he arrived he began to suspect that the celebrated doctors at the University could teach him little that was new or practical. He was ready to book passage back to America. Then he met Comyn Rhinn, Laird of the Isle of Rona: Comyn offered him the post of physician on the island and the opportunity to try his skill against the dread smallpox — and Randall accepted.

Shirley Barker has written in Swear by Apollo one of her finest historical navels.
